Indianapolis, IN – (November 17, 2015) – Axia Technology Partners has entered into a two-year agreement to supply the City of Indianapolis & Marion County government with consulting and project management services for an IT network upgrade.

“Our current network initiative is essential to building an IT infrastructure that can support the needs of the City/County government,” says Beth Howen, Chief Information Officer. “We are excited to partner with AxiaTP and look forward to their insight and expertise.”

Axia Technology Partners is an Indianapolis-based company that provides converged IP services and consulting to corporations, municipalities, financial institutions, and healthcare providers across the country.

“We currently provide IT and telecommunications services to a number of municipal governments and agencies in central Indiana and throughout the country, and are proud to add the City of Indianapolis & Marion County to that list,” said Josh Ross, Managing Partner of Axia Technology Partners.

AxiaTP has become a force in the IP technology arena, utilizing a consultative approach to solving business challenges through technology. A 2011 member of the elite Indiana Companies to Watch, and an economic impact player in numerous markets, AxiaTP has continued its growth trajectory by recently executing agreements that add three separate billion-dollar companies to its family of clients. “We were once a regional player in the IP service space,” said Ross, “but demand for our expertise has driven us upstream in the market.”
